

ROHIT NARAYANAN-McClean, VA

Rohit Narayanan is a first-year at Princeton University from McLean, Virginia. He is a graduate of the FRC, FTC and FLL programs, having been involved in FIRST for almost ten years as a mentor, volunteer and participant. As a robotics student, he has written four books and is currently working on another one focused on documentation and the engineering notebook. After a three-year campaign to boost robotics in Singapore, he is a Dean's List finalist. Aside from robotics, he's an avid playwright and an amateur political analyst.
